Invitation

On behalf of the organizing committee of the 2nd C5 Symposium on Supramolecular Chemistry 2019 (C5 2019) to be held at the beautiful city of Yangling, China from April 14-16 (14 for registration) 2019, we warmly invite you to participate in this Symposium.

We hope that through the symposium you will turn inspiration into fruitful investigations, make new friends, and renew old friendship.

Looking forward to meet you at Yangling!

Aims and Scope

This symposium is organized by Northwest A&F University, Nanjing University, and Chinese Chemical Letters (CCL) together.

This symposium originally intends to strengthen the related academic links initiated by part of the supramolecular chemists from China, UK, Australia (C3) and other countries. "The First C3 Symposium on Supramolecular Chemistry" was in its series taken place at Xiamen University, China on 16-18 April 2017, held by Professor Yunbao Jiang and his research team. The meeting was a complete success. In order to enhance international exchange and cooperation, we once again invite scientists from Australia, Britain, China France, and Ireland and other areas to attend the Symposium. We hope that through the symposium you will turn inspiration into fruitful investigations, make new friends, and renew old friendship.

The scientific program features oral presentation and poster sessions, an exhibition, and ample opportunities for attendees to network. Oral presentations are mainly made by invitation, there will be limited talk slots reserved for those who prefer oral presentations. Poster sessions will be an important part of the program. All attendees will have the opportunity of presenting their posters in evenings. A one-page abstract for each poster will be included in the abstract book.
